ASTON BRIDGE SEMINARY FOR YOUNG LADIES. — The Rev. B. S. HUNTINGTON, A. M., Principal.—This school has been in successful operation for many years, and has been recommended by a number of eminent physicians and moralists. It will commence its session on the first Wednesday of September next, with the usual advantages with respect to such Christian education, religious instruction, physical and mental culture, as well as the highest degree of moral and experimental knowledge. At such times there is no school in the country more popular, and with such a completeness of arrangements as respects for the comfort and improvement of pupils, as is believed to be rarely equalled in this country.

STATION. — ASTON BRIDGE is in Delaware County, Pa. 13 miles S. W. from Philadelphia, and accessible by railroad several times a day. It is five miles west of the Chester Station on the road to Baltimore, and one and a half miles west from the Rockdale Station on the new road from Philadelphia to Lancaster.

EDUCATIONAL ADVANTAGES. — The situation is elevated, commanding a prospect of extensive and varied scenes of healthful and interesting scenery. The advantages over a city school are very obvious and important. "Here," says a writer, "the teacher is a human being and the frame of different makes of insects have ever occurred, or will ever possibly make." The school is conducted on the plan of a family school, and a large room, provided with walls, arbor, shelves, and shade trees, afford a wide range for un-restrained exercise; the mountain air and sun necessarily insures cheerfulness of spirits. The school is conducted on the plan of a family school, and the advantages of the school are clearly apparent.

RELIGIOUS ADVANTAGES. — The law of the house, says a parent, is that of love and kindness, happily established."

Each child has the entire charge of a half a dozen of pupils in all things connected with health, comfort and improvement; and the strict discipline of each child is to give him full time and opportunity for the exercise of attention.

The building is composed partly of architecture with ample accommodations and modern conveniences of both rooms, turners, spring water on every floor, terrace, veranda, &c. The school is well furnished and decorated with Indian and European furniture, and confined to two or three occupied spans, a conveniently connected with the library and parlor, and all the usual arrangements of the household are accommodated with regard to convenience, and conducive to refined taste and health.

THE COURSE OF STUDY. — Studied by lectures and apparatus, combining all the branches of a thorough English Education, along with the Latin and French Languages, Music and Drawing, and the application of science with practice, and is certificated by a Master.

THE FRENCH LANGUAGE. — Is spoken by the principal, who has had the advantage of nine years' residence in France.

THE RELIGIOUS INFLUENCE. — Has been spoken of by clergymen, parents and pupils in such terms as the following:

"The Church may be thankful for such a school. No man shall if not the improvements we receive there at family services, and the character of the masters, whilst elsewhere directed to avarice."

ACADEMY. — 111 hours, in English and French, from Eight to Nine, and English and German evenings from the Rockdale Station, 10 miles east from the school, by carriage or steamboat, 1½ hours, via Chester, from Princeton and Broad-street, Philadelphia, to Chester, and 5 miles west from thence by carriage or steamboat.

BOOKS. — A series of five books for Board and Tuition, $100. Monthly, $35. Latin, French and Drawing, each $12. Incidents, extra, those who prefer a seat for everything, including the use of school books about music and drawing, $15. There is no charge of any description, whatever may be required.

The sessions commence on the first Wednesdays in September and Feb. Vacations in July and August.

REHABILITATION. — The school is recommended by persons in every state, whose names, with all other information, will be furnished on application to the Principal.
